Social Work Systems: History, Structures and Duties for Social Workers

The introductory course is especially designed for incoming international students to provide them with the needed knowledge of the German social system and Social Work profession in Germany, starting with the Social Work education and then going into professional self-conceptions in comparison to the international students' countries.

This course is preparing site visits offering theoretical bases. Therefore, in the course students will be familiarized with the German welfare system through a historical approach and the description and discussion of selected practical fields of social work and the roles of Social Workers, not least to compare them with other countries.

Assessment: 2 short written assignments (at the beginning and at the end of the term).

The seminar leader is Sabine Pankofer, Professor of Psychology at KSH since 1998, with a Master degree in Special Need Education, Psychology and Sociology and a PhD in Psychology. Since 2000 she works also as supervisor and is Head of the KSH München Mentorship program to become a coach / supervisor.

Social Work in Turkey with a focus on working with women and children

This course is designed for students to provide them an understanding of "Turkish Social Work" and knowledge of social work practices focused on women and children welfare areas. It is aimed to form an understanding on the development of social work in Turkey as a profession and a branch of science, and to convey what the current social work practices are and how they are applied in the problem areas of women and children. Based on the fact that the policies determine the services, the basic women and children's policies in Turkey, different political perspectives will be mentioned. Then, accordingly, a perspective will be given to the students by describing the most common problems of women and children encounter and defining the services developed and implemented to solve these problems by also picturing various practice examples. Thus, it is aimed that students have knowledge about both Turkish social work in general and services for women and children in particular.

Learning Outcomes: Students can

- Explain the development of social work in Turkey. (Cognitive, Remembering)
- Define the problems that women and children face in Turkey. (Cognitive, Remembering)
- Describe Turkish social policies for women and children. (Cognitive, Comprehension)
- Discuss social work practices of different countries. (Affective, Analysis)
- Plan a social work intervention for women and children according to Turkish services. (Affective, Creation)

Assessment: Active Participation.

Social Work in Germany: Service Provision through the Spectrum of Needs

This course is designed to introduce incoming international students to Social Work agencies offering various kinds of support to service users. Through organized site visits, students will learn how to prepare site visits through research, pre-visits and interviewing people; present social service provision providers in Munich to fellow students and exchange national and local perspectives. After the seminar, students will be familiar with social work across the spectrum of needs in Munich.

There will be site visits to institutions such as a centre for the Elderly, Munich City Social Services, a Youth centre, a drop-in-centre for drug users, assisted housing for people with handicaps, a shelter for homeless people, a community centre in a marginalized neighbourhood, an organisation acting as cultural mediators for minority groups as well as a drop-in centre at Munich main station for first support.

Assessment: organizing site visits and presentations.

The seminar leader is Andrea Gavrilina, a visiting lecturer and Head of the International Office at KSH München. She received her Master degree from Hamburg University in Social Anthropology with field work experience in the Republic of Armenia. Before joining KSH München in 2008, she was working as Long Term Observer for the OSCE in the Republic of Armenia, the Republic of Georgia and the Russian Federation, as Community Services Officer for UNHCR in the Russian Federation as well as Quality Assurance Officer for the Refugee Council in London/UK.

Alexander Buck Fortress Europe

Since the 19th century, Europe is a destination for migrants and refugees and especially Germany located in the middle of Europe. The pictures of thousands of refugees arriving in Germany in summer 2015 being well perceived were broadcasted all over the world. But the situation in Europe and Germany has changed: the so called “Welcome Culture” shifted to a rather populist and nationalistic attitude. Right-wing parties all over Europe try to establish a “Fortress Europe” by introducing restrictive laws, playing negative propaganda against migrants and refugees using racist paroles triggering confusion and fear among people. This seminar is analyzing the recent development of the mixed migration flow and its impact on Europe and explores the crucial role of Social Work professions addressing the needs of migrants and refugees.

Assessment: Presentation and written essays

Alexander Buck is the Head of the “Frans van der Lugt Project”, a shelter for asylum seekers in Munich, run by the Jesuit Refugee Service (JRS) Germany. He studied Social Work at KSH and received his Master degree in philosophy from the Jesuit “Hochschule für Philosophie”. For more than 25 years, he is a lecturer at the KSH in the fields of Social Work, Media Literacy and Education, Philosophy and Migration.

Alexia Rossi / Julian Caruana Trauma-informed Practice with Refugees and Asylum seekers

This course will provide an understanding of the phenomenon of becoming a refugee through a presentation of the push factors in countries of origin and of the treacherous journey forced migrants embark on in search of refuge. This course will also introduce students to the construct of trauma and provide them with the opportunity to familiarise themselves with the root causes of traumatisation in the refugee experience and how traumatic exposure may impact these individuals’ lives. The second part of the course will involve the teaching of aptitudes and skills that would enable students to engage with and respond effectively to the needs of refugees exposed to trauma they may encounter in their work.

Assessment: Active Participation

Alexia Rossi holds a B. Psychology (Hons) and a Master’s Degree in Human Rights and Democratization from the University of Malta, a Certificate in Global Mental Health, Trauma and Recovery from Harvard Medical School and obtained her PhD in Counselling Psychology from London Metropolitan University. She has worked in various fields including primary and secondary care, specifically within the fields of migrant mental health and child & adolescent mental health in both governmental and non-governmental settings and is a Senior Visiting Lecturer at the University of Malta.

Julian Caruana graduated with a Doctorate in Counselling Psychology from London Metropolitan University and has worked in various fields including primary and secondary care, migrant mental health, paediatric oncology, substance abuse and child & adolescent mental health. Julian is currently the Psychosocial Team Coordinator at the Jesuit Refugee Service, Malta. Julian is a senior visiting lecturer with the Department of Psychology at the University of Malta and has experience of providing training and consultation both locally and overseas, in the field of trauma and migrant mental health.

Radoslav Ganev

Human Rights Based Approach through Grassroot Activism

This course is designed to provide students with an overview of minority rights and policies in Germany. These are often marginalized or exoticized and thus pose supposedly great challenges to social workers. This seminar will use the example of the Sinti and Roma to discuss how enemy images are created, why they can be perpetuated over centuries and still make dealing with minorities difficult today.

The aim is to reflect on the perception of Sinti and Roma in society (and especially in social work) and to show how a critical examination of one's own prejudices can lead to more profitable results.

In addition, a small international comparison will be used to show that achievements in dealing with minorities are often due to their own actions. Self-organization and visibility in predominantly white dominated societies, is a sign of empowerment and a benefit to all democracies.

Requirements: Paper, presentation and handout (15 minutes).

The seminar leader is Radoslav Ganev. He is a political scientist, coach and conflict manager and the Chief Executive of the NGO Lichterkette e.V. As a member of the Roma minority group, he founded the self-organization "RomAnity" and the "Student Association of Sinti and Roma in Germany".

Petra Hilgers / Trupti Patel

Race, Power & Privilege in Social Work: using creativity to explore the dynamics of difference

This seminar will support participants on a personal journey, using creativity, dialogue and reflection to (a) explore my own social conditioning, (b) recognise where it creates barriers for connection, (c) explore ways to deepen my understanding of others, in order to (c) create more meaningful relationships in my work.

By the end of the seminar we will have (a) deepened empathy for myself and others in dealing with the difficulties inherent in connecting across difference, (b) acknowledged the role we play in upholding systemic oppression, (c) developed greater sensitivity to barriers others experience due to systemic and historic power imbalances, (d) deepened our awareness of our own privileges and how they shape our lives, and (e) developed more confidence in addressing power imbalances in social work.

This seminar is interactive with space to reflect, learn and connect; it involves personal sharing to enable personal development and we expect students to be willing to engage with subjects that might be uncomfortable and be mindful of personal triggers. We will work with creative approaches including photography, drawing, body work, image based work and writing; we will also use discussion, group work and games to develop learning. We will draw on contemporary and historic research with recommended readings, videos and talks online. We will invite students to keep a journal for their own insights, thoughts and reflections.

Petra Hilgers is a creative development practitioner with over 15 years of experience in the fields of community development, team & organisational change and personal development. Originally from Germany, Petra has developed her skills in group facilitation, peace building, non-violent communication, the arts, mediation and conflict coaching working in countries and communities all over the world including Bosnia, South Africa, Uganda, Darfur/Sudan, Afghanistan and for the past 13 years in London.

Trupti Magecha is an established photographer working on commissions and on participatory projects that enable exploring photography as a tool for self expression. As an established film maker Trupti has made documentaries for the BBC and Channel Four including the BAFTA award winning series 'The Tower' based on the regeneration of a London council estate and the award winning series Secret Millionaire. Other issues she's covered include immigration, internet child pornography and race relations.

Intercultural Communication

This course is aiming at KSH students interested in developing intercultural awareness as well as Erasmus incomings studying at KSH. The course offers students ample opportunity to actively develop their personal intercultural competences as well as develop their understanding of its relevance for their future professional path. A highly interactive mix of small group work, role-plays, personal reflection, simulations and expert input will ensure intensive learning.

Topics covered will include:

Culture shock and strategies to overcome challenges when integrating into a new cultural environment; awareness& perception as keys for intercultural understanding personal cultural influences; looking at personal life journeys and cultural influences, learning styles across cultures; understanding different expectations towards authority and knowledge transfer, effective intercultural communication and conflict resolution in an intercultural context.

Veronika Rolle-Green, M.A. Chinese Studies, trained consultant with extensive working experience for global organizations and international university programs in the area of leadership, team cooperation, communication, personal development and intercultural competence.

Michelle Mildwater / Zainab Emerald Schur

Working with Survivors of Human Trafficking

Social work's mission is to enable all people to develop their full potential, enrich their lives, and prevent dysfunction. As such, social workers are change agents in society and in the lives of the individuals, families and communities they serve. Therefore is it fundamental for social workers to be familiar with international human rights declarations and conventions as common standards of achievement for the global community. In this seminar, we will especially look into HUMAN TRAFFICKING as an expanding field of mandate for social workers. Trafficking in persons is a serious crime and a grave violation of human rights. Every year, thousands of men, women and children fall into the hands of traffickers, in their own countries and abroad. Almost every country in the world is affected by trafficking, whether as a country of origin, transit or destination for victims.

Assessment: Active Participation

Michelle Mildwater is director of the grass roots anti trafficking NGO HopeNow Copenhagen which she founded in 2007. She represents Denmark in Brussels twice a year at the EU civil society platform which combats Human trafficking, has a degree in teaching from London University and is a certified trainer in different branches of psychotherapy including trauma therapy.

Emerald Schur is a empowered survivor of trafficking. She has developed her own one women show called the only way out is through and she has founded a company called patches of dreams performing arts. She is on the board of directors of HopeNow and she togher with Michelle Mildwater develops and presents workshops and lectures for students about trafficking from an innovative perspective.

Social determinants of global (public) health

This course provides an introduction to the role of social determinants in global public health. Students will acquire knowledge about the role of key actors in (inter)national public health, learn how to analyse social determinants in global health programs and suggest interventions.

During the course speakers from a multidisciplinary group of professionals will be invited to present projects addressing key challenges and opportunities in the field of global health (focusing on women's health). Additional students will engage in a group work to gain a better understanding how the social determinants of health contribute to health inequalities.

Assessment: To be announced in the course

Nicole Schmidt, Professor of Medicine at KSH München, is an obstetrician and gynecologist from Germany, with a master's degree in public health from the Harvard School of Public Health. She worked in maternal and child projects in Kenya, the Dominican Republic and in Bolivia. She is particularly interested how to improve access to sexual and reproductive health services for women globally. Currently she is involved in a cervical cancer project in the Northern Region of Cameroun.
